The company observer.

See you in the cloud!

Christian Majer, management trainer & author, Austria

The virtual workspace is evolving. It is already much more than a place to check email. There are complex desktop solutions in cyberspace. Managing a company in virtual space means facilitating the secure exchange of information, enabling real-time communication, applying intelligent filters to the flow of data and above all customizing the workplace. So it works for you.

Company Observer® streamlines the requirements of the modern office. It's primary objective is not to achieve more than others, but to achieve what is necessary. With state-of-the-art web mobility, this concept gives "work community" a radical new meaning. Our motto: "See you in the cloud!"

Because enough is often too little.

We are in the business communications cockpit of the future and ready to fly – so what are we waiting for?

Otto Walter Ebenbichler, CEO communautic®

Software tailored for the individual user, no installation glitches, free updates, unlimited workplace options and compatibility with all operating systems (PC, Mac, tablets and Smartphones). You would find this in Wikipedia under the keywords “Every entrepreneur’s dream!” Add in cloud-based computing with minimal costs and you will likely find it under “Software programmer’s euphoria”. But for our team, these features are just the basics.

Our mission is to be uncompromising about maximizing customer options for both technology and performance.

Starting point - Project management for a major food producer collapsed. Too many different software packages left no standardized solution for project coordination, plus an abundance of part-time project managers who were poorly integrated into the information flow. Email traffic escalated.

Measures & outcome - A company-oriented web platform was set up within two hours. This offered work models (focus: project and process management) to replace three “out-of-date software products”. Online access facilitated 100% integration of all project managers (in-house and home office). Project-related email traffic was reduced by over 60%.

For any kind of complex virtual solution, I only ever ask communautic - they always make our ideas work!

June McEnroe, CEO tendis, London / UK

1 Analysis

Our software solution undergoes ongoing efficiency and functional analysis - we practice update collaboration, so we actively involve our clients. Our users influence how we optimize the value of our web platform. This allows us to incorporate our clients' specific needs and have a real say in improving usability.

2 Creation

General performance improvements, continual browser adjustments or specific client requests - our list of jobs is constantly changing. Our clients' specific requests always have top priority. We pinpoint our client's objectives, suggest a tailored solution and integrate the outcome into the next scheduled update package.

3 Update

We install our updates at user-defined intervals. Before every installation, we send our clients detailed information about imminent software updates. Installation does not affect workflow. No demands are placed on the client's resources. Depending on the size of the update package, we offer free training sessions (either personally on site or in the virtual workplace).

We specialize in ensuring your success.

*Do you aspire to intelligent - management and effective communication seamlessly integrated into projects?
This is your chance!*

communautic® Management Team

” Tell me something I don't know – and don't say you can offer me a project management software."
T Most presentations and dialogues about Company Observer® begin along these lines. No organization needs yet another tool for project management. What companies need are collaborative, professional solutions for communication that side-step irrelevant content, so that real and effective management can begin. This paves the way for success – and we specialize in ensuring your success!
